NOTES with expanded genealogy lines

Note <sup>1</sup> Carmen's parents were Erineo Valencia and Domitila Ramirez both born in Mexico circa 1880s. Domitila was my maternal grandmother and her brother Eduardo Ramirez was my maternal granduncle. They crossed the border to escape the Mexican Revolution. No other information is available. Eduardo Ramirez is lost in this genealogy because he is from another line of Ramirez ancestors.

So, they are your maternal grandfather, maternal grandmother, maternal granduncle, maternal great grandfather, maternal great grandmother and maternal great granduncle or your maternal great, great grandfather, maternal great, great grandmother and maternal great, great granduncle and etc., wherever you fit in. I am confused so correct me if you can.

Is it also that for some of you, they may be considered maternal great grandfather in-law etc., etc.? Is there such a title? Again, I am confused so correct me if you can.

And somewhere in there, some of you are cousins, cousins once removed, cousins in-law etc., etc.; figure it out I am too confused. Oh, what about aunts, uncles, etc.!!!

This is their genealogy which also begins at the 1st generation
